THE SUPPLY CHAIN RESILIENCE PLATFORM

Welcome to

The Supply Chain Resilience platform

powered by the Enterprise Europe Network in collaboration with the European Cluster Collaboration Platform, with the support of the European Commission and EISMEA

Register your business to connect with new partners and secure your international supply chain!

https://supply-chain-resilience-platform.b2match.io/

Europe is facing a number of economic, environmental and social challenges, most notably the crisis in Ukraine, with businesses severely affected by supply chain disruptions. To address these challenges, the European Union (EU) has launched new measures to strengthen the resilience of the Single Market and build a sustainable, digital and globally competitive economy.

Enhancing the ability of entrepreneurs, businesses and societies to bounce back from crises is crucial for Europe's rapid recovery and future success. Yet, restarting the economy after a pandemic and a recession is not an easy task. Such changes require immediate action and joint efforts across all levels and stakeholders.

The Enterprise Europe Network and EU clusters play an essential role in mitigating vulnerabilities in international supply chains. To address these pressing issues, the Network has established a Supply Chain Resilience platform. This helps companies retain, restructure or replace existing supply chains, as well as source raw materials, parts, components and/or (semi-)finished goods or services they need to keep production going.

Main goals

- Publish offers for raw materials, parts, components and/or (semi-)finished goods or services;
- Promote requests from European companies to sustain their supply chains;
- Match international suppliers with buyers of goods and services;
- Establish cross-border contacts between businesses, industries, support organisations, academia, important stakeholders and key decision-makers.

Key topics

The platform focuses on the following sectors:

- Agri-Food
- Construction
- Digital
- Electronics
- Energy-Intensive Industries
- Health
- · Mobility, Transport, Automotive
- Raw materials
- Renewable energy
- Textile

Why should you join this platform?

- Connect with the international business community, find new partners for collaboration, and identify potential suppliers or buyers;
- Showcase your most successful projects, innovative products, and cutting-edge technologies;
- Join the debate and share insights on solutions and initiatives to address vulnerabilities in international supply chains.

All business profiles are validated by official Enterprise Europe Network partners to facilitate safe and reliable interactions between businesses.

EU companies interested in helping Ukrainian companies overcome chain disruptions are welcome to do so by simply filtering participating companies by country. Find out more about how the EU, Enterprise Europe Network and individual EU Member States support Ukrainian citizens and companies.

Transition pathway for the textiles ecosystem

Explore the concrete pledges submitted by stakeholders to support the transition pathway for the textiles ecosystem.

The 2021 updated EU Industrial strategy highlights the need to accelerate the green and digital transitions of the EU Industry. In this context, a co-creation process was launched to create a Transition Pathway for the Textiles ecosystem. Building on the co-creation process with stakeholders, the Transition Pathway policy report for the Textiles ecosystem was published on 6 June 2023. Following this, the Commission launched a Call for commitments to stakeholders.

The purpose of the call is to collect commitments from stakeholders on the concrete actions that they will take in order to bring forward and help achieve the actions identified in the Transition Pathway. It is an important way to showcase how stakeholders support the objectives of the Transition Pathway and their commitment to work together to support the twin transition of the ecosystem and strengthen its resilience and competitiveness. The commitments will help address gaps, pool resources towards shared milestones and mobilise support.

The commitments will contribute to the co-implementation of the Transition Pathway. The Commission will support this process by facilitating exchanges of knowledge and best practices. A "pledge" is a concrete action presented by an organisation with a measurable target. A submission that does not contain concrete actions or targets is deemed to be a "general commitment" and is not published.

In the case of general commitments, only information about the organisation that submitted them is published. If the necessary clarifications are provided, these general commitments could then be published as pledges.

IP Assets Safeguarding training session:

The Key to SMEs' Competitiveness in the fashion industry

Link to register on B2Match

The International IP SME Helpdesks in collaboration with the Enterprise European Network (EEN) is hosting a series of training sessions to provide European SMEs and stakeholder with an overview of the relevance of intellectual property rights (IPRs) for a variety of sectors and relevant IP clauses, with special focus on the most remarkable particularities of Africa, China, India, Latin America, and South-East Asia.

Discussions about IP in the context of internationalisation present an opportunity to highlight the intersection between innovation, skills development, and economic growth. Acquiring market-specific skills, such as regulatory knowledge, marketing analysis, adaptability, efficient use of supply chain, as well as a strong IP strategy can enhance market penetration, facilitate successful expansion, and unlock untapped opportunities.

This second session will be held onsite at the Torino Sport and Fashion Match 2024 in Turin, Italy, the international matchmaking event addressed to Textile, Fashion Creative and Sport industries.

From emergent designers and innovative textile and fashion brands to manufacturing companies and circular and sustainable providers, the textile industry as a whole is called to understand the relevance of handling intellectual property matters globally.

As the market globalisation era enables worldwide competitiveness, it is imperative to understand how to efficiently handle the complexity of cross-border IP rights, arising from different legal frameworks and jurisdictional obstacles. Effective and efficient business goals require more than ever an alignment with a strong IP strategy, which in simpler words could be translated into having a clear path to reach partners and consumers whilst capturing exclusivity over certain elements that enable this path and the defence of business interests.

In a bid to shed light on the dynamic interplay among innovation, competitiveness, internationalisation and economic growth, the International IP SME Helpdesks explore the Role of Intellectual Property in SMEs' Global Ventures.

The "protection" is here finally considered as a proactive and ongoing process that starts with systematically reviewing all aspects of SMEs business, needed to uncover intellectual property that provides a competitive advantage, contributes to revenue generation, or represents valuable intangible assets. Then, IPRs' registration is needed in the territory of relevant commercial interest. After registering the most important rights, SMEs must understand how to use IPRs in their commercial relationships to achieve business goals and generate revenue. Finally, recognizing that the previous phases are essential for enforcing their registered rights is crucial for SMEs to be able to defend their future business interests.

Thus, in this session, the International Helpdesk will delve into several critical aspects of the Intellectual Property Rights Protection Process:

- The Africa IP SME Helpdesk will guide SMEs in identifying valuable intellectual property assets.
- The China and Southeast Asia IP SME Helpdesk will assist in navigating the registration phase and its challenges.
- The India IP SME Helpdesk will explore how SMEs can leverage IPRs for revenue generation and enforce these rights to safeguard their future.
- To conclude, the Latin America IP SME Helpdesk will use one of its case studies to illustrate the four main stages of Intellectual Property Protection.

This is a session not to be missed by SME owners, managers, and entrepreneurs, as well as legal advisors, intellectual property professionals, and anyone involved in protecting and managing intellectual property assets within a business.

Stories from entrepreneurs in the fashion industry

Erdluxe is a fledgling one-woman start-up company established in the city of Völklingen in the southwest of Germany in 2021by Aysenur Erden. She had already gained many years of experience in the textile industry within large companies but longed for realising her own ideas and dreams. The company originally set out to offer distinctive, high-quality products tailored for women. The young female entrepreneur marketed her creations through her own online platform and several other digital outlets across Europe.

The company's journey with EEN in Saarland began in 2021 when she sought consultancy services for the registration of a trademark in Germany. The venture flourished, prompting an expansion of their trademark internationally which was formally approved in November 2022.

Encouraged by EEN, Erdluxe was open to broaden her horizons by participating in the Amsterdam Fashion Match, leveraging the event to forge international connections, showcase its products, and explore potential suppliers. Her participation was quite a success but the she needed new capital to expand her business. Unfortunately, she had to encounter a severe setback securing a bank loan for her plans.

But the young entrepreneur pivoted creatively. Instead of embracing conventional growth strategies, Erden decided to procure men's vintage garments from renowned fashion brands and repurpose them through upcycling techniques and make them unique statement pieces for women. This innovative approach breathed new life into Erdluxe's offerings, fostering sustainable growth instead of traditional financing concepts. Furthermore, she is able to keep her business running and create a solid basis for future projects.

From a humble start up to luxury department stores

Paint My Dreams is a Yorkshire born business, affectionately named the 'third baby' of founder Kate Cullingworth, it takes hand drawn, intricately painted designs and transforms them into beautiful baby keepsakes through the medium of embroidery. Kate has been supported through the latter part of her journey by Daniel Houchen of Innovate UK Business Growth who has been amazed at the success of the company over the last 12 months, achieved through sheer hard work, top quality garments and very astute market positioning.

Based in the English countryside, all of its products are embroidered and finished locally by a small team of artisans. Each product is treated as a blank canvas with colour and design applied to order, a process which not only allows for the creation of bespoke pieces that are unique, it also sits within the brands sustainable ethos.

As a mother of two lovely children, Kate resonates with wanting thoughtful gifts for them to treasure for a lifetime. The desire to stay at home to watch her children grow resulted in the Paint My Dreams concept being conceived at her kitchen table in the year of 2015. From humble beginnings, Paint My Dreams is now stocked in two of the most prestigious department stores in the world! Successfully launching in the luxury department store Harrods in 2023 and Harvey Nichols, Riyadh earlier this year, the brand continues to grow recently launching with the online retailer; Childrensalon.

The customer is at the heart of Paint My Dreams, with every effort taken to provide the highest quality product and service. When asked what her message to any new business owner would be, Kate responded; "No dream is too big, no matter who you are or where you come from. If you believe in what you're selling, your ethos and your values – that will shine out of your business and attract your ideal customers. Once you have those customers, look after them. Really look after them. Listen to them and value them because after all, they're the ones who can make your dreams come true!"
